

Friends of Englesea Brook Chapel and Museum

Alsager Book Emporium

Run by the Friends of Englesea Brook and a dedicated group of volunteers, this former Methodist chapel is a treasure trove of secondhand books and is another major fundraiser for the work of Englesea Brook Chapel and Museum.

Open Fridays and Saturdays 10am-2pm

If you would like to volunteer either at Englesea Brook or the Book Emporium, contact director@engleseabrook.org.uk

Englesea Brook Chapel and Museum of Primitive Methodism, one of the four main Methodist Heritage sites, is the only site to explore the unique contribution made by the 'Prims' to shaping the life, mission, social and political engagement of the church today.

Our vision is to provide a Place of Encounter, offering to all visitors

- a positive life-enhancing experience
- relevant understanding of Christian faith
- links with contemporary social and political issues
- opportunities for learning and discussion
- challenge and inspiration for the future

A particular focus is given to learning. We welcome researchers to our unique library, our museum collection which contains over 3,000 artefacts and themed visits for schools and other youth groups.

What would you receive as a Friend?

- two issues of The Ranters' Digest a year.
- discounted rates to special events during the year, run by the Museum and the Friends.
- A copy of our monthly newsletter 'The Englesea Extra'

How can you help us by joining the Friends?

We value the support of the Friends, which helps keep the Museum open, produce exhibitions and displays, and occasionally topurchase an item of unique importance relating to Primitive Methodism.

Our major fund-raiser is the Alsager Book Emporium, which is run entirely by volunteers. We have over 35,000 second hand books for sale. We would be delighted with practical help to sort, price books, make tea and coffee, and help sell books on Friday and Saturday mornings.

To become a Friend of Englesea Brook

We ask for a minimum of £12.50 per annum per household. You can either set up a standing order or send a cheque – payable to Englesea Brook Chapel and Museum. Please complete the form below and send to:
